VOL. XXXIII.

STANFORD, KY., FRIDAY, JUNE 23, 1905.

NO. 33.

KINGSVILLE.

Logan Walls and family are visiting relatives here.

We are very anxious to have a rural free delivery route established.

The delightful rains have helped vegetation so much in the last few days that the farmers are greatly encouraged.

Sam Rigney, who has been ill with rheumatic fever, is very much improved. Dr. O'Bannon, of Stanford, was called as consulting physician with Dr. Thompson.

Elder Ware, of Lebanon, who is a K. U. Bible student, held services here on Sunday, preaching to a fair audience both morning and evening, notwithstanding the intense heat and services at the other churches. He is a splendid young preacher and his excellent sermons were delivered in the choicest language. Rev. R. R. Noel filled his appointment at the Baptist church and regular services were held at the Hall.

Mrs. James Roy and son, James, late of Lexington, are the guests of friends here. Mrs. Roy and son, will on their return to Lexington, visit relatives in Indiana and thence to Cotton Plant, Arkansas, where they will join Mr. Roy, who is station agent there. Miss Effie Carey, who has been sewing in Lexington, is with her mother and sisters here. Master Ernest Flint has been with his father near Stanford. Lon Ligney, of the C. S., spent a few days with the homefolks. Claude Hester has resigned his position with Sebastian Chevrolet, and gone to railroad. Operator J. C. Creighton has resumed work with the C. S. and is holding down the office at Moreland. Charles B. Wells, of Somerset, was here Wednesday.

Judge Cochran Eulogized.

Senator James B. McCreary, who was in the city yesterday, expressed himself very emphatically that Judge Cochran would decide that the Federal court has no jurisdiction in the Powers case. He said he had known Judge Cochran for 20 years and that a more conscientious, christian gentleman did not live, that he would divest the case of every partisan prejudice and decide according to law after he had made a thorough and complete examination of it. When he has made this examination he is bound to see that no Federal question is involved and that he has no jurisdiction, and will so decide. When the president asked Senator McCreary before the appointment of Judge Cochran with reference to him, the Senator told him that if he wanted a capable, clean, scholarly, conscientious lawyer who would be governed by law and not by partisanship in his decisions, Judge Cochran was eminently fitted to fill the bill. The Senator says now that he has never had reason to change his opinion of the judge and doesn't think he will ever have occasion to do so. This good opinion of Judge Cochran seems to be held by all who know him, and we are therefore hoping for the best that is in him. We trust we shall never be confounded or deceived in him.—Frankfort Journal.

Huge Task.

It was a huge task to undertake the cure of such a bad case of kidney disease, as that of C. F. Collier, of Cherokee, Ia., but Electric Bitters did it. He writes: "My kidneys were so far gone, I could not sit on a chair without a cushion; and suffered from dreadful backache, headache and depression. In Electric Bitters, however, I found a cure, and by them was restored to perfect health. I recommend this great tonic medicine to all with weak kidneys, liver or stomach. Guaranteed by G. L. Penny, Stanford, and Lyne Bros., Crab Orchard, druggists. Price 50c.

IN NEIGHBORING COUNTIES.

George W. Vanarsdale, one of Mercer county's wealthiest farmers, died near Burgin.

John Fortney, a nine-year-old boy of Hazel Patch, was bitten by an immense rattlesnake and is at the point of death. Freight Conductor Wm. Catron was killed, Brakeman "Red" Orbe badly hurt and several cars demolished in a wreck on the Stony Fork division of the L. & N. near Middlesboro.

George Lair and Hardin Coffey had an altercation at Monticello. Lair cut Coffey four times with a knife. He also struck him in the mouth with a bottle and knocked some of his teeth out. Coffey was placed in jail. Lair is still at large.

Col. Jim Guest, of Crab Orchard, was here yesterday. He says the fair up there this year will be the "best ever" and some large improvements in the way of several new hotels may be built to accommodate the crowd.—Danville News.

A terrific thunder storm and the hardest rain of the season visited London Wednesday, says a dispatch. The fine harness horse of Congressman D. C. Edwards, which he recently bought in Central Kentucky for $500, was struck by lightning and killed.

During a thunder storm the residence of W. S. Gammon, near Burgin, was struck by lightning and Mrs. Kitty Edwards, an aunt of Mrs. Gammon, was instantly killed. She was in an upstairs room, standing near an open window. A little child was with her at the time and was not injured.

The printing plant of Somerset Sun has been sold to the Somerset Mountaineer, and in Friday's issue of the Sun its suspension was announced, together with an announcement that a daily paper would be issued from the Mountaineer office beginning July 3rd, edited by Mr. Kirk Boone.—Somerset Journal.

Last Monday Joseph Lawless, a man about 72 years old, was shot and instantly killed by his eight-year-old son. Mr. Lawless was in Jamestown early in the morning, leaving for his home about 10 o'clock. In a few minutes after his arrival he commenced a quarrel with his wife, who is about 25 years younger. He probably made threats of violence, and her son fearing for the safety of his mother, grabbed a shotgun, fired, killing the father instantly. Before Lawless left town he said to some men with whom he was talking, that "he was having a great deal of trouble, and was on his way to hell."—Adair News.

DR. R. A. JONES, of Cincinnati, reached Columbia Saturday night, en route for Montpelier, where he visits his parents. H. R. Camnitz, of this office, is visiting his daughter at Hustonsville.—Adair News.

Mark Twain once said that his average daily output of writing, when he works, is 1,800 words a day. That is about the average day's work of the newspaper writer on a large daily paper, day in and day out, seven days a week. In the course of a year this amounts to 657,000 words. The ordinary novel contains 100,000 words. The newspaper man writes enough to make a novel of the best selling type every two months, with plenty left over at the end of the year to make another book of very respectable size. Let us suppose that he works at the business 40 years; he has written 26,280,000 words, or 240 books. Not even Mrs. E. D. E. N. Southworth could beat that.—Portland Oregonian.

Found a Cure for Dyspepsia.

Mrs. S. Lindsay, of Fort William, Ontario, Canada, who has suffered quite a number of years from dyspepsia and great pains in the stomach, was advised by her druggist to take Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets. She did so and says, "I find that they have done me a great deal of good. I have never had any suffering since I began using them." If troubled with dyspepsia or indigestion why not take these Tablets, get well and stay well? For sale by Lyne Bros., Crab Orchard, Ky.

Bobbitt's Fourth of July and 24 Law Cases.

STANFORD, JUNE 21st.—I have been requested by several good citizens of the town and county to contribute a letter to your columns this week, and I will commence by telling all my good friends in Lincoln, Casey and Boyle that I have been invited, and have accepted, the invitation to speak at Yosemite on the 4th of July and shall be there, no bad luck on the way. I shall speak without note or preparation, and shall wrap the tri-colored Star Spangled Banner around me and leave the earth to be the wicked's den and soar through the blue dome of the ethereal vault of heaven and shall construct my metaphors of blue ozone, spars of ether and vapory feathers plucked from the rainbow's wing, and scatter copious showers of pearly gems upon the heads of the admiring audience far below. I shall ascend about 10 o'clock, and if I do not fall, shall gracefully descend to dinner about 12 o'clock. Those whose imagination is so dull they can not soar upon aerial wings can amuse themselves in various ways till I return. Now I want to tell the boys about my 24 cases on the sea of Equity and Common Law. I can leave port in the grandest style, banners flying, music playing, but a few knots out and I lose my bearings, nautical skill all gone, in mid-ocean without chart or compass, and can't even be wrecked. Could I only be stranded upon some desolate shore, I could bring a new suit and start again. Now I have 24 magnificent argosies afloat but I know not where. Whether in the longitude of general demurrer, or in the latitude of special demurrer, or in the frozen zone of motion to strike, or the torrid zone of already stricken, no one can tell. Whenever the water grows too deep and the distant landscape begins to fade from view I tell the cases good bye and good luck and leap overboard and swim ashore, or betake myself to my little canoe, dismissed without prejudice, amend and start again. Some of my cases are so old they have become beacon lights or marine landmarks, warning the legal mariner to keep off the sunken reef. I have no trouble in steering between Scylla and Charybdis, neither the whirlpool nor Scylla's barking cubs have any terrors for me, but never can arrive at the port of judgment. Perhaps I may hear from my ships of law by wireless telegraphy. Yours and Stanford's for all next week.

Whooping Cough in Jamaica

Mr. J. Riley Bennett, a chemist of Brown's Town, Jamaica, West India Islands, writes: "I can not speak too highly of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. It has proved itself to be the best remedy for whooping cough, which is prevalent on this end of the globe. It has never failed to relieve in any case where I have recommended it; and grateful mothers, after using it, are daily thanking me for advising them." This remedy is for sale by Lyne Bros., Crab Orchard, Ky.

OVER IN INDIANA.—"By cracky, I had a warm old time last evening," said Phineas Hoosier, laying his "Grecian Mythology" aside.

"What did you do?"

"Oh, we went up to Blinkins' house, locked all the doors, pulled down the shade and smoked two cigarettes each. You don't know how exciting it is to deliberately fly in the face of the law. It gives one such a queer feeling of independence."

MATRIMONIAL.

On Thursday, June 29th at the home of the intended bride, the Rev. J. Pendleton Scruggs and Miss Fannie Garnett will be united in marriage, the Rev. E. W. Barnett, of Corbin, officiating.—Adair News.

Milton M. Conder and Miss Exie Reynolds were married at Crab Orchard Wednesday night by Eld. J. G. Livingston. The groom is a well-known and clever young man, while his bride is the daughter of Mr. Sam F. Reynolds and who is as pretty as she is popular.

Mr. Thomas R. Walton, formerly of this place, but for many years a resident of Atlanta, was married there a few days ago to Miss Ella Scudday, of that city. Miss Scudday lived in Nashville until a few years ago, when she moved to the Gate City, where she is well and most favorably known. We haven't the pleasure of our new sister's acquaintance and can not tell our readers as fully about her as we would like, but if our brother has used his usual good judgment, and we'll wager he has, we can safely say that she is a fine woman and that Mr. Walton has reason to feel proud of his helpmeet. Mr. and Mrs. Walton are spending a few weeks at Lithia Springs, Ga., after which they will be at home to their friends in Atlanta.

A wedding of unusual interest, because of the prominence of the contracting parties, Miss Jean Venning Dick, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. E. G. Dick, and Mr. Wm. Monks, of Louisville, and of its extraordinary spectacular features, took place Wednesday evening at Crab Orchard Springs, not in the spacious parlors but upon the wide veranda, which had been latticed for the occasion and bedecked with daisies and ferns, forming an enclosure of living green and gold. The bridal path from the center entrance to the distant southern corner of the veranda, which was a floral bower for the climax of the ceremony, was formed of snowy canvases, down which a dainty flower maid, little Miss Edith Isaacs, of Louisville, strewn rose leaves from a floral basket. Mr. Donald Dick and Mr. Lane Isaacs, of Louisville, led the procession to Lohengrin's wedding march by Saxton's orchestra, of Lexington. The matron of honor was Mrs. H. D. Countryman, of Rockford, Ill., the beautiful sister of the bride, wearing cream crepe de chene trimmed with lace. The maids were Misses Verna Kimball and Florence Graham, of Rockford, Ill., attired in white net over white silk with yellow girdles. The maid of honor was Miss Annie Bronaugh, of Crab Orchard, who walked alone with grace and beauty, wearing white crepe de chene trimmed with silk lace. Preceded by the flower maid and walking alone, appeared the bride attired in a deliciously beautiful costume of white chiffon taffeta, tucked and elaborately trimmed with Valenciennes lace, enveloped in a snowy bridal veil. As she neared the altar in the spacious embowered corner of the portico, which was lined with guests, the groom leaning lightly upon the arm of his best man and uncle, Mr. Claude Moses, of Louisville, approached at right angles from the southern wing of the portico and joined the bride, thence proceeding to the minister's place. There they were made man and wife by Rev. George C. Crates, of Louisville, whereupon a shower of rose petals were released from the floral bell pendant above the couple, covering them as with snow flakes. During the ceremony and subsequently, Saxton's orchestra softly discoursed the Flower Song. At the bride's table light refreshments were served under the direction of Mrs. J. B. Willis. A huge bowl of frappe also regaled the guests during the festivities. At midnight Mr. and Mrs. Monks, accompanied by a dozen friends as far as Livingston, departed for a bridal tour through the East, after which they will return to pass the rest of the summer at Crab Orchard Springs. A score of friends of the groom from Louisville and many friends of the popular bride from this section, as well as the Springs guests, witnessed the ceremony, which has been rarely equaled in this section and never surpassed in the uniqueness of the environment and decorations. Many costly presents were received, manifesting the high standing and popularity of the happy couple, to whom the INTERIOR JOURNAL extends its heartiest well-wishes.

No Secret About It.

It is no secret that for Cuts, Burns, Ulcers, Fever Sores, Sore Eyes, Bolls, etc., nothing is so effective as Bucklen's Arnica Salve. "It didn't take long to cure a bad sore I had, and it is all O. K. for sore eyes," writes D. L. Gregory, of Hope, Texas. 25c at G. L. Penny's, Stanford, and Lyne Bros., Crab Orchard, drug stores.
